Judge: Hon. Edward M. Chen
SAC Filed: July 29, 2015

1 TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR COUNSEL OF RECORD:

2 PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT on October 8, 2015, at 1:30 p.m., or as soon thereafter as 3 the matter may be heard before the Honorable Edward M. Chen, in Courtroom 5 of the United States 4 District Court for the Northern District of California in the San Francisco Courthouse, Seventeenth 5 Floor, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, Defendants Uber Technologies, Inc.
6 (“Uber”), Travis Kalanick, and Ryan Graves (collectively, “Defendants”) will and do move this 7 Court, pursuant to Rules 9 and 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, for an order 8 dismissing Counts II through VII of Plaintiffs’ Second Amended Class Action Complaint on the 9 ground that Plaintiffs have failed to state a claim against Defendants upon which relief may be 10 granted. In addition, Defendants will and do move this Court, pursuant to Rules 9 and 12(b)(6) of the 11 Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, for an order dismissing Defendants Kalanick and Graves from this 12 action entirely on the ground that Plaintiffs have failed to state a claim against Defendants Kalanick 13 and Graves upon which relief may be granted.

14 Defendants’ Motion is based on this Notice of Motion and Motion, the accompanying 15 Memorandum of Points and Authorities, the concurrently filed Request for Judicial Notice, the 16 concurrently filed Declaration of Michael Colman, any other matters of which the Court may take 17 judicial notice, other documents on file in this action, and any oral argument of counsel.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. OVERVIEW

On June 12, 2015, this Court granted in part and denied in part Defendants' motion to dismiss the First Amended Complaint ("FAC"), granting Plaintiffs leave to file another amended complaint. See Yucesoy v. Uber Techs., Inc., --- F. Supp. 3d ----, 2015 WL 3657656 (N.D. Cal. 2015) (hereinafter "Dkt. No. 69"). On July 29, 2015, Plaintiffs filed their eight-page Second Amended Complaint ("SAC"), alleging the following causes of action against Uber on behalf of a putative class of "Uber drivers" in Massachusetts¹: (I) Independent Contractor Misclassification; (II) Violation of the Massachusetts Tips Law; (III) Tortious Interference with Advantageous Relations; (IV) Unjust Enrichment/Quantum Meruit; (V) Breach of Contract; (VI) Violation of the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Law; and (VII) Violation of the Massachusetts Overtime Law. Dkt. No. 86. The SAC seeks to hold individual defendants Kalanick and Graves liable only for Counts I and II.²

This Court should dismiss the individual defendants, as well as Counts II through VII, with prejudice. Much like the FAC, the SAC consists entirely of cursory factual allegations and a few boilerplate recitations of legal conclusions. Despite this Court's express instructions, Plaintiffs have not meaningfully expanded or clarified their allegations and have not come close to curing the numerous deficiencies identified by this Court when it dismissed several claims the last time around. See Dkt. Nos. 69, 85.

With respect to Plaintiffs' Massachusetts Tips Law claim (Count II), Plaintiffs' allegations sound in fraud and therefore are subject to Rule 9(b)'s heightened pleading requirements. According ¹ Plaintiffs purport to represent “all . . . individuals who have worked as Uber drivers (other than Uber taxi drivers) in Massachusetts,” without any temporal limitation for the putative class. SAC at ¶ 10. To the extent Plaintiffs purport to assert claims on behalf of putative class members whose causes of action accrued prior to June 26, 2011, such claims are foreclosed as a matter of law by applicable statutes of limitation. Mass. Gen. L. c. 149 § 150 (three-year statute of limitations for Wage Act claims); Mass. Gen. L. c. 151 § 20A (same for minimum wage and overtime claims); Mass. Gen. L. c. 260 § 2A (same for tort actions); see Epstein v. C.R. Bard, Inc., 460 F.3d 183, 187 (1st Cir. 2006).

² The SAC, unlike the FAC, does not assert claims against Defendants Kalanick and Graves for tortious interference with advantageous relations, unjust enrichment/quantum meruit, breach of contract, or violation of the Minimum Wage Act or Overtime Law (Counts III through VII).

1 to Plaintiffs, Uber and the individual defendants engaged in “deceptive and misleading 2 communications [with] customers” (SAC at ¶ 24), tricking customers into “believ[ing] that tips are 3 already included in Uber’s price for car service” (id. at Count II), which allegedly resulted in riders 4 not giving tips they otherwise would have provided to drivers. Under the stringent pleading 5 standards of Rule 9(b), Plaintiffs’ allegations of fraud must be dismissed for failure to set forth the 6 circumstances of the alleged fraud with the requisite degree of particularity. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b); 7 Salameh v. Tarsadia Hotel, 726 F.3d 1124, 1133 (9th Cir. 2013).

8 Plaintiffs’ common law claims—for tortious interference (Count III), unjust 9 enrichment/quantum meruit (Count IV), and breach of contract (Count V)—fail as a matter of law 10 because they are based on the same allegations, and seek the same relief, as Plaintiffs’ statutory claim 11 under the Massachusetts Tips Law (Count II). As a result, Plaintiffs’ Tips Law claim supersedes and 12 preempts the common law claims. See Mouiny v. Commonwealth Flats Dev. Corp., No. 06-1116-BLS1, 13 2008 WL 6091269, at *7 (Mass. Super. Ct. Aug. 18, 2008) (citing School Comm. of Lowell v. Mayor, 14 164 N.E. 91, 92 (Mass. 1928)). In addition, two of these common law claims (Counts IV and 15 V) fail for independent reasons, as discussed below.

16 Plaintiffs’ Minimum Wage Law claim (Count VI) and Overtime Law claim (Count VII)
 17 should be dismissed for failure to cure the pleading deficiencies previously identified by the Court.
 18 Despite adding three new plaintiffs and a few new barebones factual allegations, Plaintiffs have not 19 adequately alleged that any of them has personally suffered an injury giving rise to a minimum wage 20 or overtime claim.

21 Finally, defendants Kalanick and Graves should be dismissed from the lawsuit entirely. As in 22 O’Connor, Plaintiffs’ skeletal allegations against these individual defendants do not provide a 23 plausible basis for personal liability as to Counts I or II—the only two claims asserted against them.
 24 See Blanco v. United Comb & Novelty Corp., Civ. A. No. 13-10829-TSH, 2013 WL 5755482, at *4
 25 (D. Mass. Oct. 22, 2013); Robinson v. Spencer Stuart, Inc., Civ. A. No. 13-10278-RWZ, 2013 WL 26 3989672, at *4 (D. Mass. Aug. 5, 2013).

1 II. STATEMENT OF ISSUES TO BE DECIDED [L.R. 7-4(a)(3)]

2 The following issues are raised by this motion:

3 1. Whether Plaintiffs' second cause of action fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which 4 relief can be granted.

5 2. Whether Plaintiffs' third cause of action fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which relief 6 can be granted.

7 3. Whether Plaintiffs' fourth cause of action fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which 8 relief can be granted.

9 4. Whether Plaintiffs' fifth cause of action fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which relief 10 can be granted.

11 5. Whether Plaintiffs' sixth cause of action fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which relief 12 can be granted.

13 6. Whether Plaintiffs' seventh cause of action fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which 14 relief can be granted.

15 7. Whether the SAC fails to set forth sufficient facts upon which relief can be granted against 16 individual defendants Kalanick and Graves with respect to Plaintiffs' first and second causes of 17 action (the only two causes of action asserted against the individual defendants).

18 III. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

19 Plaintiffs allege that "Uber provides car service via an on demand dispatch system," 20 "offer[ing] customers the ability to hail a car service driver on a mobile phone application." SAC at 21 ¶¶ 14-15. Plaintiffs contend that, although drivers who use the Uber App are "classified as 22 independent contractors," they are actually Uber's "employees under Massachusetts law." Id. at ¶ 25.
23 Plaintiffs allege in general terms, without providing any examples, that "Uber has stated to its 24 customers, on its website and in marketing materials, that a gratuity is included in the total cost of the 25 car service and that there is no need to tip the driver." Id. at ¶ 17. Plaintiffs also assert that 26 "Defendants do not ensure that drivers receive at least the Massachusetts minimum wage" and that 27 "[d]rivers often work more than 40 hours per week without receiving . . . overtime pay." Id. at ¶¶ 30, 28 31.

1 Plaintiffs set forth no factual allegations concerning Defendants Kalanick and Graves, other 2 than to identify them as the “President and Director” and “Vice President and Director” of Uber, 3 respectively, and assert that they are “responsible for Uber’s pay practices and employment policies,” 4 have “primary responsibility for overseeing the management of service employees employed by 5 Uber, namely Uber drivers,” and are “officer[s] of an establishment employing service employees.”
 6 SAC at ¶¶ 12-13. The Statement of Facts section of the SAC identifies only Uber, not the individual 7 defendants, as the entity responsible for each allegedly unlawful action pertaining to Counts I and II.
 8 See id. at ¶¶ 14-29.

9 IV. LEGAL STANDARD

10 A motion to dismiss based on Rule 12(b)(6) challenges the legal sufficiency of the claims 11 alleged. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); Parks Sch. of Bus. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir.
 12 1995). In considering such a motion, a court must take all allegations of material fact as true and 13 construe them in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, although “conclusory allegations of 14 law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to avoid a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal.” Cousins v.
 15 Lockyer, 568 F.3d 1063, 1067 (9th Cir. 2009); see also Manning v. Boston Med. Ctr. Corp., 725 F.3d 16 34, 43 (1st Cir. 2013) (“[C]onclusory allegations that merely parrot the relevant legal standard are 17 disregarded, as they are not entitled to the presumption of truth.”). “[A] complaint must contain 18 sufficient factual matter . . . to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face,’” meaning that a 19 plaintiff must “plead[] factual content that allows the court to draw [a] reasonable inference that the 20 defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting 21 Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 556, 570 (2007)).

22 As to claims sounding in fraud, Plaintiffs are required by Rule 9(b) to plead specific, 23 particularized factual allegations identifying the “time, place, and specific content of the false 24 representations as well as the identities of the parties to the misrepresentations.” Swartz v. KPMG 25 LLP, 476 F.3d 756, 764 (9th Cir. 2007).

26 “Dismissal without leave to amend is proper if it is clear that the complaint could not be saved 27 by amendment.” Somers v. Apple, Inc., 729 F.3d 953, 960 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting Kendall v. Visa 28 U.S.A., Inc., 518 F.3d 1042, 1051 (9th Cir. 2008)); see also Leadsinger, Inc. v. BMG Music Publ’g, 1 512 F.3d 522, 532 (9th Cir. 2008) (district court may deny leave to amend due to “repeated failure to 2 cure deficiencies by amendments previously allowed” (quoting Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 3 (1962))).

4 V. ARGUMENT

5 This Court should dismiss with prejudice Count I (as to individual defendants Kalanick and 6 Graves) and Counts II through VII (as to all Defendants).

7 A. Plaintiffs Fail To State A Claim For Independent Contractor Misclassification As 8 To Defendants Kalanick and Graves (Count I)

9 Plaintiffs’ first cause of action—alleging that Defendants have misclassified drivers operating 10 in Massachusetts as independent contractors—should be dismissed as to Defendants Kalanick and 11 Graves for failure to allege facts showing that they are individually liable to Plaintiffs.

12 The SAC pleads just four paragraphs containing factual allegations regarding independent 13 contractor misclassification. See SAC at ¶¶ 26-29. Plaintiffs allege that “Uber drivers are employees 14 under Massachusetts law” because “drivers’ services are fully integrated into Uber’s business,” 15 “drivers are required to follow a litany of detailed requirements imposed on them by Uber and they 16 are graded, and are subject to termination, based on their failure to adhere to these requirements,” and 17 “[d]rivers are economically dependent on Uber.” Id. at ¶¶ 25-28. The SAC also asserts, without 18 explanation or factual support, that all drivers who use the Uber App are “service employees” of 19 Uber. See id. at ¶¶ 12-13.

20 The only mention of Defendants Kalanick and Graves comes in the SAC’s description of the 21 Parties. The SAC alleges that “Defendant Travis Kalanick is a California resident and is the President 22 and a Director of Uber,” “Defendant Ryan Graves is a California resident and is the Vice President and 23 Director of Uber,” and that Defendants Kalanick and Graves are “responsible for Uber’s pay practices 24 and employment policies,” “ha[ve] primary responsibility for overseeing the management of service 25 employees,” and are “officer[s] of an establishment employing service employees.” SAC at ¶¶ 12-13.
 26 Tellingly, the SAC’s “Statement of Facts” offers no allegations whatsoever regarding the individual 27 defendants; it identifies only Uber, the corporation, in each allegation pertaining to independent 28 contractor misclassification. Id. at ¶¶ 14-29.

1 Several cases have held that these types of conclusory allegations are insufficient to state a 2 claim against individual defendants like Kalanick and Graves. For example, in Blanco v. United 3 Comb & Novelty Corp., 2013 WL 5755482 (D. Mass. Oct. 22, 2013), the court held that plaintiffs 4 had failed to state a Wage Act claim against an individual defendant because the complaint contained 5 only “bare-bones allegations . . . that [the individual] own[ed] and operate[d] [the corporate 6 defendant], and that he [was the corporate defendant’s] president, treasurer, secretary, director, and 7 registered agent.” 2013 WL 5755482, at *4; see also id. (“An individual corporate officer may be 8 considered an employer . . . only upon demonstration that there was a ‘role played by the corporate 9 officer in causing the corporation to undercompensate employees[.]’”) (citation omitted). And in 10 Robinson v. Spencer Stuart, Inc., Civ. A. No. 13-10278-RWZ, 2013 WL 3989672 (D. Mass. Aug. 5, 11 2013), the court held that the plaintiff failed to state a Wage Act claim against a corporate executive 12 because the plaintiff simply made a “conclusory allegation that [defendant] ‘controlled, directed, and 13 participated to a substantial degree in formulating and determining Company policy.’” 2013 WL 14 3989672, at *4. The Robinson allegation, even bolstered by a supporting affidavit, “certainly [did] 15 not raise a plausible inference that [the executive] controls and directs the company’s policy to the 16 extent necessary to incur liability under the Wage Act.” Id. at *4 (citation and internal quotation 17 marks omitted).

18 In addition, the Court’s reasons for dismissing Defendants Kalanick and Graves in O’Connor
 19 are equally applicable in this action. See O’Connor v. Uber Techs., Inc., No. C-13-3826-EMC, 2013 20 WL 6354534, at *18 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 5, 2013). Where, as here, Plaintiffs have merely identified the 21 individual defendants’ “roles in the corporation and alleg[ed] that [they] were ‘responsible’ for pay 22 practices and employment policies,” such allegations do “not make it plausible that they were 23 personally liable.” Id. at *18; see also Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 680-81 (classifying complaint’s 24 allegations—“that [John] Ashcroft was the ‘principal architect’” of the challenged policy and that 25 “[Robert] Mueller was ‘instrumental’ in adopting and executing it”—as “bare assertions,” “bald 26 allegations,” and “conclusory”). Here, the SAC does not plead any facts showing that Defendants 27 Kalanick or Graves personally controlled or directed company policy, or that either controlled or 28 influenced Plaintiffs in any way. Plaintiffs never specify which, if any, allegedly “detailed 1 requirements” Defendants Kalanick or Graves imposed on them personally, or whether they 2 followed, ignored, or were impacted in any way by such requirements. See SAC at ¶ 27. Thus, 3 Count I against Defendants Kalanick and Graves should be dismissed.

4 B. Plaintiffs Fail To State A Claim Under The Massachusetts Tips Law (Count II)

5 Plaintiffs’ second cause of action—alleging violations of the Massachusetts Tips Law—
 6 should be dismissed as to all Defendants because it sounds in fraud, yet fails to meet Rule 9(b)’s 7 particularity requirements. Additionally, Count II should be dismissed as to Defendants Kalanick and 8 Graves for the independent reason that Plaintiffs have failed to cure the pleading deficiencies 9 identified by this Court in its prior Order dismissing the claim as to the individual defendants. See 10 Dkt. No. 69 at 13-17.

11 1. Plaintiffs Fail To Satisfy Rule 9(b)’s Heightened Pleading Requirements

12 Plaintiffs’ Massachusetts Tips Law claim is subject to Rule 9(b)’s heightened pleading 13 standard because it sounds in fraud. Rule 9(b)’s heightened standard applies to claims that are 14 “grounded in fraud” or that “sound in fraud,” Kearns v. Ford Motor Co., 567 F.3d 1120, 1125 (9th 15 Cir. 2009); see also Hayduk v. Lanna, 775 F.2d 441, 443 (1st Cir. 1985) (Rule 9(b) applies where 16 “fraud lies at the core of the action”), regardless of the label the pleader assigns to it, Kearns, 567 17 F.3d at 1125; see also In re Computervision Corp. Sec. Litig., 869 F. Supp. 56, 63 (D. Mass. 1994)
 18 (“[A]lthough no fraud claim [was] pleaded per se,” complaint sounded in fraud). To meet Rule 19 9(b)’s heightened pleading standard, “Plaintiffs’ complaint must ‘identify the who, what, when, 20 where, and how of the misconduct charged, as well as what is false or misleading about the 21 purportedly fraudulent statement, and why it is false.’” Salameh v. Tarsadia Hotel, 726 F.3d 1124, 22 1133 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting Cafasso, U.S. ex rel. v. Gen. Dynamics C4 Sys., Inc., 637 F.3d 1047, 23 1055 (9th Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks omitted)); see also Driscoll v. Landmark Bank for 24 Sav., 758 F. Supp. 48, 51 (D. Mass. 1991) (“[T]o satisfy Rule 9(b), a pleading must specify the “time, 25 place, and content of an alleged false representation . . .” (citations and internal quotation marks 26 omitted)). “It is established law, in this circuit and elsewhere, that Rule 9(b)’s particularity 27 requirement applies to state-law causes of action.” Vess v. Ciba-Geigy Corp. USA, 317 F.3d 1097, 28 1103 (9th Cir. 2003). “[W]hile a federal court will examine state law to determine whether the elements of fraud have been pled sufficiently to state a cause of action, the Rule 9(b) requirement that the circumstances of the fraud must be stated with particularity is a federally imposed rule.”” Id. (quoting Hayduk, 775 F.2d at 443 (emphasis in original)).

The thrust of Plaintiffs’ Massachusetts Tips Law claim is that “Defendants have interfered with drivers’ receipt of tips by leading customers to believe that tips are already included in Uber’s price for car service.” SAC at Count II. Plaintiffs allege that “Uber has prevented its drivers from receiving tips from customers based upon its deceptive and misleading communications to customers.” Id. at ¶ 24 (emphasis added). Indeed, in its prior order, this Court ruled that “[t]he only fair reading of Plaintiff’s complaint is that Uber intentionally misrepresented that gratuity was included in the cost of its fares, and thus informed passengers not to leave a tip in addition to the amount of the fare.” Dkt. No. 69 at 7. In other words, Plaintiffs have alleged that Uber committed a fraud.

Yet the SAC falls far short of satisfying Rule 9(b)’s heightened pleading standard. It lacks any specific, particularized factual allegations regarding the “time, place, and content of [Uber’s] alleged false representation[s]” Driscoll, 758 F. Supp. at 51. The SAC alleges vaguely that, at some point, “Uber has stated to customers . . . ‘that ‘tip is included’ in the fare,” SAC at ¶¶ 17-18, and that Uber “advertised to customers that gratuity is included in the cost of its car service.” Id. at ¶ 3. But it does not cite a single specific advertisement or statement made by Uber or the individual defendants. It does not specify when or where any such statements were made, or by whom or to whom they were stated. There is certainly no allegation that Defendants ever represented to riders or drivers that 20%—or any specific amount, percentage, or even range—of each fare was actually a tip. See id. at ¶ 22. There is no allegation that any rider, much less those who actually rode with any of the Plaintiffs, either saw or heard any of these alleged statements from Uber regarding tipping, believed them to be true, relied on them, or misunderstood Uber’s well-known cashless payment model. There is also no allegation that any of the Plaintiffs ever received or did not receive a particular tip that a rider intended to leave. Without alleging any specific factual allegations, Plaintiffs’ allegations are merely an unsupported argument that Uber and the individual defendants

1 knowingly deceived riders and that Plaintiffs have suffered some cognizable harm because of it. That 2 is insufficient under Rule 9(b).³

3 2. Count II Should Be Dismissed As To Defendants Kalanick And Graves 4 Because Plaintiffs Have Failed To Cure The Fatal Pleading Deficiencies Identified By This Court

5 Plaintiffs' Massachusetts Tips Law claim also should be dismissed as to Defendants Kalanick 6 and Graves for the reasons previously identified by the Court. See Dkt. No. 69 at 13-17. Plaintiffs 7 have failed to add any nonconclusory allegations to bolster their deficient pleading.

8 This Court previously dismissed Plaintiffs' Tips Law claims as to Defendants Kalanick and 9 Graves for three independent reasons. See Dkt. No. 69 at 13-17. First, the Court recognized that "the 10 language of section 148 imposing . . . individual liability . . . does not apply to . . . section 152A of the 11 Wage Act." Dkt. No. 69 at 14-16 (citing Blanco, 2013 WL 5755482, at *2 n.3 ("Significantly, the text 12 of . . . section 148 . . . contains an important limitation: it applies only to 'this section' of the statute 13 . . . Thus, section 148 does not apply to e.g. section 152A of the Wage Act.")). Second, the Court 14 found that Plaintiffs alleged themselves to be "in service" to Uber, but not to either of the individual 15 defendants. Dkt. No. 69 at 16 (citing Mass. Gen. L. c. 149 § 152A). Third, the Court noted that 16 Plaintiffs did not plausibly show that the individual defendants are "owners or officers of an 17 'establishment'" under section 152A. Dkt. No. 69 at 16-17 (citing Mass. Gen. L. c. 149 § 152A).

18 The SAC makes little effort to cure these fatal deficiencies identified by the Court. The SAC 19 still contains no factual allegations indicating that Plaintiffs are "in service" to either individual 20 defendant. See Mass. Gen. L. c. 149 § 152A; Dkt. No. 69 at 16. And Plaintiffs have completely 21 disregarded the Court's instruction to "plead additional facts regarding the individual defendants' 22 'wrongful acts in which they have been personally involved.'" Dkt. No. 69 at 14 (quoting O'Connor, 23 2013 WL 6354534, at *18). As they did before, Plaintiffs still allege themselves to be in the service 24 of Uber only. See SAC at ¶¶ 14-29.

 26 ³ Moreover, as this Court previously noted, all of Plaintiffs' claims that are pleaded inadequately 27 against Uber "are also inadequately pleaded against the individual defendants, whose liability 28 could only derive from their [alleged responsibility for Uber's pay practices and employment policies]." Dkt. No. 69 at 13-14. Thus, if Plaintiffs' Tips Law claim is dismissed as to Uber, it should be dismissed as to the individual defendants as well.

1 In an apparent attempt to cast Defendants Kalanick and Graves as “employer[s]” under 2 section 152A, Plaintiffs have added to their SAC two new boilerplate recitations of legal elements:
 3 that (i) Defendants Kalanick and Graves have “primary responsibility for overseeing the management 4 of service employees employed by Uber, namely Uber drivers”; and (ii) each “is an officer of an 5 establishment employing service employees, namely Uber drivers.” SAC at ¶¶ 12-13. But Plaintiffs’ 6 misguided efforts to cure their pleading deficiencies ignore this Court’s findings that (i) the 7 Massachusetts Tips Law is “principally directed at employers in the foodservice industry,” and (ii) the 8 term “establishment,” which limits the definition of “employer,” is “likely intended to apply to the 9 owners or officers of restaurants, bars, or the like—not necessarily owners of large multinational 10 corporations like Uber,” and should thus be “given its plain and ordinary meaning.” Dkt. No. 69 at 16.
 11 Plaintiffs’ generic allegations, which simply parrot Massachusetts statutory law, fail to state a claim 12 upon which relief may be granted. See Mitchell v. U.S. Airways, Inc., 874 F. Supp. 2d 50, 53 (D.
 13 Mass. 2012) (“A mere recital of the legal elements supported only by conclusory statements is not 14 sufficient to state a cause of action” (citing Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678-79)). Because Plaintiffs still do 15 not (and cannot) plausibly allege that Defendants Kalanick or Graves are owners or officers of an 16 “establishment” under section 152A, Defendants Kalanick or Graves cannot be held individually 17 liable. See Blanco, 2013 WL 5755482, at *4 (holding that “bare-bones allegations . . . that [an 18 individual] owns and operates [a corporation], and that he is also [the corporation’s] president, 19 treasurer, secretary, director, and registered agent are insufficient to establish that he was an 20 ‘employer’”).

21 C. Plaintiffs’ Common Law Claims (Counts III, IV, V) Are Superseded By The 22 Massachusetts Tips Law

23 Plaintiffs’ common law causes of action for tortious interference (Count III), unjust 24 enrichment/quantum meruit (Count IV), and breach of contract (Count V) each fail because they are 25 based on the same allegations and seek relief covered by Plaintiffs’ Massachusetts Tips Law claim.
 26 As a result, they are superseded as a matter of law.

27 “Under Massachusetts law, where a statute has been enacted seemingly intended to cover the 28 whole subject to which it relates, including a remedy for its infraction, other provisions of the 1 common law, including such as are remedial in nature, are thereby superseded.” Mansfield v. Pitney 2 Bowes, Inc., No. 12-10131-DJC, 2013 WL 947191, at *2 (D. Mass. Mar. 12, 2013) (citing Sch.

 3 Comm. of Bos. v. Reilly, 362 Mass. 334, 338 (Mass. 1972)). The Massachusetts Tips Law constitutes 4 one such law. See Lipsitt v. Plaud, 994 N.E.2d 777, 784 n.11 (Mass. 2013) (“Cases involving the 5 Tips Act . . . are situations where an employee would have no recognized cause of action but for the 6 statutes’ imposition of obligations on employers” (internal citations and quotation marks omitted).).
 7 Accordingly, Massachusetts courts routinely dismiss common law claims that are based on 8 allegations covered, and therefore superseded, by the Massachusetts Tips Law. See, e.g., Belghiti v.
 9 Select Restaurants, Inc., No. 10-12049-GAO, 2014 WL 1281476, at *5 (D. Mass. Mar. 31, 2014) 10 (granting summary judgment for defendant as to common law claims preempted by Tips Act and 11 Tips Act claims themselves); Cormier v. Landry’s, Inc., No. 13-11822-NMG, 2013 WL 6196000, at 12 *5 (D. Mass. Nov. 22, 2013) (“common law claims cannot be brought for alleged violations of the 13 Tips Act”); George v. Nat’l Water Main Cleaning Co., 286 F.R.D. 168, 187-88 (D. Mass. 2012) 14 (granting judgment on the pleadings as to breach of contract and unjust enrichment claims under 15 Massachusetts law); Masiello v. Marriot Intern., Inc., No. 08-4036-BLS1, 2011 WL 1842293, at *3 16 (Mass. Super. Ct. Apr. 8, 2011) (“[Plaintiff’s] common law claims rise or fall on his Tips Act claim.
 17 Where that fails, so too must his common law claims.”); DePina v. Marriott Int’l, Inc., No. 2003-18 05434, 2009 WL 8554874, at *13-14 (Mass Super. Ct. July, 28, 2009) (holding that Tips Law 19 preempted plaintiffs’ unjust enrichment, restitution, and breach of contract claims); Godt v. Anthony’s 20 Pier 4, Inc., No. 07-3919-BLS1, 2009 WL 3868348, at *5-6 (Mass. Super. Ct. Mar. 25, 2009) 21 (holding that Tips Law preempted interference with contractual and/or advantageous relations, unjust 22 enrichment, quantum meruit, and breach of contract claims); Mouiny v. Commonwealth Flats Dev.
 23 Corp., No. 06-1116-BLS1, 2008 WL 6091269, at *7 (Mass. Super. Ct. Aug. 18, 2008) (holding that 24 Tips Law superseded plaintiffs’ related common law claims).

25 Here, all three of Plaintiffs’ common law claims are based on the exact same allegations that 26 undergird their Massachusetts Tips Law claim. Compare SAC at Count II (“Defendants have 27 interfered with drivers’ receipt of tips by leading customers to believe that tips are already included in 28 Uber’s price for car service.”), with id. at Count III (“Uber’s conduct, as set forth above, in failing to

1 remit the total proceeds of gratuities to the drivers (that customers want to leave for Uber drivers and 2 believe they are leaving for them) constitutes unlawful tortious interference . . .”), id. at Count IV 3 (“Uber has been unjustly enriched through its retention of a portion of the gratuities owed to the 4 drivers, in violation of state common law.”), id. at Count V (“Uber’s conduct, as set forth above, 5 constitutes breach of contract under state common law. . . . [C]ustomers pay what they reasonably 6 believe is gratuity [sic] for the benefit of the drivers and intend for the drivers to receive.”).
 7 Plaintiffs’ “common law claims are mere surplusage, of no legal consequence,” Mouiny, 2008 WL 8 6091269, at *7, and therefore should be dismissed with prejudice.

9 D. Plaintiffs Cannot State A Claim For Unjust Enrichment/Quantum Meruit
 10 (Count IV)

11 Plaintiffs’ claim for unjust enrichment/quantum meruit fails for the additional reason that 12 express contracts between Uber and Plaintiffs have governed and continue to govern the terms of 13 payment to drivers, including Plaintiffs. See Request for Judicial Notice, Exs. A-W.

14 “Recovery in quantum meruit presupposes that no valid contract covers the subject matter of a 15 dispute.” Boswell v. Zephyr Lines, Inc., 606 N.E.2d 1336, 1342 (Mass. 1993). “Where such a 16 contract exists, the law need not create a quantum meruit right to receive compensation for services 17 rendered.” Id.; see also MCI Worldcom Commc ’ns, Inc. v. Dep’t Telecomms. & Energy, 810 N.E.2d 18 802, 812 (Mass. 2004). As this Court previously held, Plaintiffs “could never recover in quantum 19 meruit where there was an express contract between Uber and the drivers that governed the payment 20 of fares.” Dkt. No. 69 at 10; see also id. (noting that “the same legal rules applies in Massachusetts” 21 as in California). Although the Court declined to dismiss the quantum meruit claim the last time 22 around, it noted that Plaintiffs’ claim would “lose its viability” if Defendants could show the 23 “existence of an express contract that governs Uber’s payment of fares or gratuities.” Id. at 11.

24 Although Plaintiffs still have not affirmatively pleaded the existence of any express contracts 25 governing the terms of their relationship with Uber, they have conceded in this action that such 26 contracts exist, and that Plaintiffs have “received and agreed to” them. See, e.g., Dkt. Nos. 72 27 (Plaintiffs’ Opposition to Defendants’ Motion to Compel Arbitration) at 1-3; 101 (Plaintiffs’ 28 Opposition to Defendants’ Motion to Compel Arbitration as to Plaintiffs Morris and Sanchez) at 1-3;

1 see also Gospel Missions of Am. v. City of Los Angeles, 328 F.3d 548, 557 (9th Cir. 2003) (statements
 2 made in briefs may be binding judicial admissions); Pullano v. Cooke, No. 07-P-613, 2009 WL 3 937199, 903 N.E.2d 1144, at *3 (Mass. App. Ct. Apr. 9, 2009) (“While [plaintiff] is allowed to plead 4 in the alternative, the conceded existence of a contract here renders a claim for quantum meruit 5 unavailable, and the trial judge properly dismissed the count.”). Indeed, there is no question that such 6 contracts exist—the Court is well aware that they are central to Plaintiffs’ misclassification claim and 7 class certification argument. See O’Connor v. Uber Techs., Inc., --- F. Supp. 3d ----, 2015 WL 8 1069092, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 11, 2015) (“Once a prospective driver successfully completes the 9 application and interview stages, the driver must sign contracts with Uber or one of Uber’s 10 subsidiaries (Raiser LLC). . . . Those contracts explicitly provide that the relationship between the 11 transportation providers and Uber/Raiser ‘is solely that of independent contracting parties.’”).
 12 Accordingly, Plaintiffs’ unjust enrichment/quantum meruit claim should be dismissed, as it was in 13 O’Connor, with prejudice. See O’Connor, 2013 WL 6354534, at *13 (“Because Plaintiffs allege that 14 the ‘gratuities’ Uber collects are part of the fare paid by customers, and the Licensing Agreement 15 governs how fares will be divvied up between drivers and Uber, the agreement covers the subject 16 matter of a quantum meruit claim: Uber’s motion to dismiss the quantum meruit claim is 17 granted with prejudice.”); Boswell, 606 N.E.2d at 1342.

18 E. Plaintiffs Fail To State A Claim For Breach of Contract (Count V)

19 Plaintiffs’ fifth cause of action for breach of contract fails for exactly the same reasons stated 20 by the Court in its prior Order dismissing this claim: “Plaintiffs never explain in their complaint why 21 they might be third-party beneficiaries of any contract between Uber and its riders, nor do they even 22 identify what contract Uber apparently breached with its customers, whether that contract is express 23 or implied, and if it is implied, what that contract’s terms might be.” Dkt. No. 69 at 11. Although 24 this Court granted Plaintiffs leave to correct these pleading deficiencies, see id. at 12, Plaintiffs have 25 not done so. Instead, Plaintiffs offer only the following new assertion: “Uber’s contracts with its 26 customers have, at various times, incorporated by reference the representations made on its website, 27 which state that a tip is included in drivers’ fares.” SAC at Count V; see also id. at ¶ 18.

1 Plaintiffs' meager attempt to cure the deficiencies this Court identified falls far short. The 2 SAC still fails to allege whether the supposed agreement between Uber and riders is an express or 3 implied contract. Dkt. No. 69 at 11 ("Plaintiffs never explain . . . whether [the] contract is express or 4 implied . . ."). The SAC still fails to allege "why [Plaintiffs] might be third-party beneficiaries of 5 any contract between Uber and its riders . . .". Id.; see also Cumis Ins. Society, Inc. v. BJ's Wholesale Club, Inc., 918 N.E.2d 36, 42, 44-45, n.18 (Mass. 2009) ("In order to recover as a third-6 party beneficiary, the plaintiffs must show that they were intended beneficiaries of the contract . . .").
 7 The SAC still does not specify the content of the alleged contract between Uber and customers. Dkt.
 8 No. 69 at 11 ("Plaintiffs never explain . . . what that contract's terms might be."). And it still does 9 not specify the sequence of events regarding the formation of Uber's alleged contracts with riders or 10 the alleged statements that were incorporated by reference into those contracts. See May 21, 2015, 11 Hearing Tr. at 13:4-16:12 ("[I]t seems to me that there ought to be some greater specificity here.").
 12 In effect, Plaintiffs allege that some unspecified contracts, which may be implied or may be express, 13 at some unknown point in time, incorporated by reference some unidentified representations 14 purportedly made by Uber that are not tied to Plaintiffs in any way. Such vague allegations plainly 15 are insufficient to "unlock the doors of discovery." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678-79; see also *Doherty v.
 16 Admiral's Flagship Condo. Trust*, 951 N.E.2d 936, 943 (Mass. App. Ct. 2011) ("[P]laintiff's bare 17 allegation as to each count that she 'was an intended beneficiary of said contract,' with no additional 18 facts regarding the defendants' intent, fails to state a claim for relief as an intended third-party 19 beneficiary to a contract.").

21 F. Plaintiffs Fail To State A Massachusetts Minimum Wage Law Claim (Count VI)

22 Plaintiffs' Minimum Wage Law claim, asserted this time around against Uber but not the 23 individual defendants, likewise should be dismissed because Plaintiffs have again failed to cure the 24 pleading deficiencies identified by the Court in its prior Order dismissing the claim—namely, to 25 plead that they "personally" were paid less than minimum wage. See Dkt. No. 69 at 12-13.

26 This Court previously held that Plaintiffs' Minimum Wage Law allegations were "obviously 27 deficient for a very simple reason—neither of the Plaintiffs allege[d] that he was personally ever paid 28 less than the minimum wage" Dkt. No. 69 at 13; see also id. ("Plaintiffs here have not alleged any injury-in-fact to themselves, and thus would not have standing to pursue the claims.”) (citing Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560 (1992)). Despite adding three new Plaintiffs, the SAC neglects to allege a single fact regarding four of the Plaintiffs—Plaintiffs Yucesoy, Mahammed, Talha, and Sanchez—with respect to the Minimum Wage Law Claim. See Pruell v. Caritas Christi, 678 F.3d 10, 14 (1st Cir. 2012) (“[W]hen the district judge asks for more specifics, a serious effort to flesh out the complaint is fairly to be expected.”). Because Plaintiffs have failed to allege that those Plaintiffs have suffered any injury-in-fact, despite having multiple opportunities to do so, the Minimum Wage Law claims of Plaintiffs Yucesoy, Mahammed, Talha, and Sanchez should be dismissed with prejudice. See Lujan, 504 U.S. at 560; Birdsong v. Apple, Inc., 590 F.3d 955, 960 (9th Cir. 2009).

As for new Plaintiff Morris, Plaintiffs include a single new allegation in the SAC: “Plaintiff Morris calculates that in some weeks (including the week of June 16, 2015), considering the hours he was logged in to receive ride requests from Uber, and after deducting the cost of his car and gas expenses, the amount he received for his work driving for Uber came to less than the Massachusetts minimum wage of $9.00 per hour.” SAC at ¶ 30. This allegation is insufficient to state a “plausible” claim for relief under the Minimum Wage Act. Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678. The SAC offers no explanation, for example, as to how Plaintiff Morris calculated his pay per hour, or which records, if any, he consulted. See Pruell, 678 F.3d at 15 (“Plaintiffs certainly know what sort of work they performed and presumably know how much they were paid as wages.”). The SAC does not allege or even approximate how many hours he worked during “some weeks,” or describe the “work” he was purportedly performing during this time so that Defendants can determine whether the “work” was compensable under Massachusetts law.⁴ The SAC does not identify or even approximate how much

⁴ Although it is impossible to decipher the meaning of “work” from Plaintiff Morris’s vague allegations, it appears that Plaintiff Morris’s definition of “work” may include nothing more than logging into the Uber App, time that plainly could not be factored into Plaintiffs’ minimum wage calculations even if Plaintiffs were deemed to be Uber’s employees. See SAC at ¶ 30 (“Plaintiff Morris calculates that . . . considering the hours he was logged in to receive ride requests from Uber, . . . the amount he received for his work driving for Uber came to less than the Massachusetts minimum wage”) (emphasis added); see Pruell, 678 F.3d at 14 (plaintiffs failed to state FLSA claim by alleging that they “regularly worked hours over 40 in a week and were not compensated for such time” because “various forms of ‘work’ may not be []

1 Plaintiff Morris earned during “some weeks.” And it fails to identify the types or amount of costs that 2 Plaintiff Morris chose to deduct when making his calculation; such costs are described only obliquely 3 as “the cost of his car and gas expenses,” leaving Defendants with no way to determine whether these 4 alleged “costs” were even conceivably reimbursable expenses under any Massachusetts law. See SAC
 5 at ¶ 30. Even when construed in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs, the SAC simply does not plead 6 sufficient facts to elevate Plaintiff Morris’s Minimum Wage Law claim “above the mere possibility of 7 [D]efendants’ liability.” Manning, 725 F.3d at 45. As such, Plaintiffs’ Minimum Wage Law claim 8 should be dismissed.

9 G. Plaintiffs Have Not Stated A Massachusetts Overtime Law Claim (Count VII)

10 Plaintiffs have also failed to remedy their inadequately-pleaded Overtime Law claim because 11 they once again have failed to allege that they each “personally” worked more than forty hours in a 12 given workweek and failed to receive overtime compensation during those particular workweeks.
 13 See Dkt. No. 69 at 12-13 (“[E]ven if the factual content of the . . . overtime claims was otherwise 14 sufficient to state claim under Massachusetts law, Plaintiffs have not alleged any injury-in-fact to 15 themselves”).

16 The Massachusetts Overtime Law “mandates overtime pay for hours worked over 40 per 17 week at one and a half times the employee’s regular rate of pay.” Cavallaro v. UMass Mem'l 18 Healthcare, Inc., 678 F.3d 1, 9 (1st Cir. 2012); see Mass. Gen. L. c. 151 § 1A. Under the 19 Massachusetts Overtime Law, as with the analogous federal Fair Labor Standards Act, “a plaintiff 20 asserting a claim to overtime payments must allege that she worked more than forty hours in a given 21 workweek without being compensated for the overtime hours worked during that workweek.” 22 Landers v. Quality Commc’ns., Inc., 771 F.3d 638, 644-45 (9th Cir. 2015) (emphasis added) (citation 23 omitted); Lundy v. Catholic Health Sys. of Long Island Inc., 711 F.3d 106, 114 (2d Cir. 2013) 24 (holding that plaintiffs failed to plead FLSA overtime claim because “Plaintiffs [had] not alleged a

26 compensable.”); Dagan v. Jewish Community Housing for the Elderly, 45 Mass. App. Ct. 511, 27 519 (1998) (holding that “on-call time . . . i.e., working and waiting, as contrasted with working 28 time only” does not “constitute[] working time for purposes of applying the minimum and overtime provisions” of the Minimum Wage Act).

1 single workweek in which they worked at least 40 hours and also worked uncompensated time in 2 excess of 40 hours) (emphasis added); see also Swift v. AutoZone, Inc., 806 N.E.2d 95, 98-99 (Mass.
 3 2004) (interpreting Massachusetts Overtime Law by reference to FLSA because “the overtime 4 provisions under State law were intended to be ‘essentially identical’ to Federal law . . .”) (citation 5 omitted); cf. Pruell, 678 F.3d at 13-14 (holding that Plaintiffs had failed to state FLSA overtime 6 claim even though they alleged that they “regularly worked hours over 40 in a week and were not 7 compensated for such time”) (emphasis added).

8 In addition to the same generic allegations that this Court found wanting the last time it 9 dismissed Plaintiffs’ claim, see SAC at ¶ 31 (“Drivers often work more than 40 hours per week 10 without receiving this overtime pay.”), Plaintiffs have added just two sentences to their pleading: 11 (i) “[W]hen Plaintiff Yucesoy drove for UberX, he often worked more than 40 hours per week 12 (including the week of January 20, 2014, when he worked approximately 46 hours),” and 13 (ii) “Plaintiff Morris also frequently drives more than forty hours per week (including, for example, 14 the weeks of June 8, 2015, and June 16, 2015).” Id. at ¶ 31. But, crucially, neither of these sentences 15 contains an allegation that either Plaintiff Yucesoy or Plaintiff Morris was ever undercompensated 16 during any of the three weeks in which they supposedly “worked” for more than 40 hours.⁵ Numerous 17 courts of appeal, including the Ninth Circuit, have held that such allegations are insufficient to state an 18 overtime claim. See Landers, 771 F.3d at 644-45; Lundy, 711 F.3d at 114; see also Swift, 806 N.E.2d 19 at 98-99.⁶ Because Plaintiffs have again failed to allege facts sufficient to state an Overtime Law 20 claim, the Court should dismiss Plaintiffs’ claim with prejudice. See Lujan, 504 U.S. at 560; Birdsong, 21 590 F.3d at 960.

22
 23
 24 25⁵ Additionally, Plaintiffs’ Overtime Law claim, like their Minimum Wage Law claim, fails to 26 explain or describe the meaning of “work” in this context. See Pruell, 678 F.3d at 14.

26⁶ Plaintiffs offer no allegations whatsoever as to Plaintiffs Mahammed, Talha, and Sanchez—27 certainly not any particular weeks in which they allegedly worked for more than 40 hours and for 28 which they were undercompensated—so, at a minimum, those Plaintiffs’ Overtime Law Claims should be dismissed with prejudice.

H. Plaintiffs Fail To State Any Claims Against Defendants Kalanick and Graves

As shown above, Plaintiffs allege only two causes of action (Counts I and II) against Defendants Kalanick and Graves, neither of which is viable because the SAC’s cursory allegations fail to provide even a remotely plausible basis for individual liability. There is no reason to allow Plaintiffs to “pierce the corporate veil,” as they are attempting to do. See Hearing Tr. at 28:9-37:6; see also Birbara v. Locke, 99 F.3d 1233, 1239 (1st Cir. 1996) (in Massachusetts, corporate veils are pierced only “in rare situations”). For the foregoing reasons, Defendants Kalanick and Graves should be dismissed from this litigation.

VI. CONCLUSION

Because Plaintiffs' SAC fails to state claims upon which relief may be granted, and because any further amendment of the complaint would be futile and wasteful, Counts II through VII and individual defendants Kalanick and Graves should be dismissed with prejudice.
